Basic Price Scale : Series value x Player value

how it works

We can't list every hockey card in this price guide. As such, we have produced the following Basic Price Scale for serial-numbered cards from the 2000s (2000-01 to present). Collectors must remember that this is only a guide and that any actual or final prices will be determined between the buyer and the seller.

SERIES VALUE x PLAYER VALUE

You can use the Basic Price Scale to determine rough estimates on new sports cards. The values on the left represent the Series Value (note - the number on the far left represents the stated quantity). The values below represent the Player Value. To determine a card's potential cost of purchase, multiply the Series Value (HI value) by the Player Value.

Remember: this chart offers only a rough guideline. Few cards ever sell at the list guide price - most cards sell for more or less than the listed price.

EXAMPLE

If, Series Value = 100 & Player Value = 25%,
Then potential card cost is 100 x .25 = $25
